THE NINETEENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BELLEVUE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

THE New York Training School for Nurses attached to Bellevue Hospital was formed May, 1873 by taking charge of three wards by five pupils.

In 1891 with the wonderful increase of training schools and the large number of graduated nurses from these various schools the demand is still far greater than the supply.

During the past year the calls for private nurses were 1419, an increase of 204 more than in 1890, showing what an invaluable aid to the physician and surgeon a thoroughly trained nurse is, and what a blessing she is, not only to the suffering patient, but to the home circle.

But is this training which fits a nurse to assume such responsibilities an easy task? By no means, for two years in a hospital means an amount of hard and earnest work which taxes mind and body to the utmost, and to go through it requires sound health, abnegation of self, and a cheerful disposition. Therefore it is that so many nurses fail during the first month of probation. In those who persevere, it develops an amount of self-control, patience, obedience, system, and order that is almost as valuable as the discipline of soldiers, and which fits them for heads of hospitals and to be most efficient aids to physicians in cases of severe illness.

The pay our nurses receive barely covers the expense of their text-books and of the simple outfit of clothes they require for service in the wards of the Hospital.

The loyalty of many of our nurses to the calling for which they have been educated is beyond praise.

When the yellow fever was raging in Charleston a few years ago several nurses volunteered to go there under the superintendence of one of the physicians with whom they have worked in Bellevue Hospital.

During the sickness that followed the floods at Johnstown, a graduate from Pa. left a lucrative position and associated herself with Miss Barton of the Red Cross Association, organizing and taking charge of the nursing among the sufferers

A number of our graduated nurses have devoted their lives to district nursing among the poor. The Superintendent of City Missions writes : " The work of a trained nurse in City Missions cannot be over-estimated. The comfort given in a time of bodily distress softens the heart of every one in the family, no matter how hardened by sin. The influence thus gained has led to the uplifting of many a household.

" The trained nurse is not only most efficient in battling with pain and disease, but, in her daily ministry in crowded tenements finds here a larger opportunity in the prevention which is worth more than the pound of cure. Many a delicate woman has been saved to her little ones by timely care and nutrition. Hundreds of babies in New York have been kept from blindness and deformity because of the trained nurse who was a friend in need to the ignorant mother."

It is interesting to see the influence of a well organized training school upon a great city hospital where it is established for intelligent co-operation with the governing powers. It is the avenue through which a constant stream of wise sympathy is best bestowed upon the poor.

Reclining chairs, beds, rests and tables, warm shawls and flannels have been provided for the scantily clad convalescents, and for the children Christmas-Trees laden with everything that could while away the weary hours of the little ones in bed, or in the weakness that follows severe illness.

During the year 1891 there were 1721 applicants for admission to the School ; of this number 41 were accepted and 11 failed on the probation month, either from unsuitability for the work, or their health not being considered equal to the severe strain ; 4 pupils have left during the year, 3 finding the work too severe, and one has married.

'The health of the School has been unusually good.

Miss Brennan, our Superintendent, was given two months' leave of absence and during her visit abroad Miss Littlefield assumed the duties and reported with much pleasure to the Managers " that the nurses had been most willing to obey all her orders and anxious to maintain the good order and discipline of the School."

During the year six graduates have married and two have died. The influence of the work of the school may be estimated when we state that twenty-four of our graduates have accepted hospital positions during the past year, and are superintendents at Cook Co. Hospital, Chicago ; Portland, Oregon ; Lahore and Madras, India ; Japan ; Brooklyn, Seney Hospital ; Post-Graduate Hospital, N. Y. City ; Cottage Hospital, Englewood, N. J. ; Koch Sanitarium, Denver ; St. Vincent's Hospital, N. Y. City ; Syracuse, N. Y., Deaf and Dumb Asylum ; Shepherd Insane Asylum, Baltimore ; New Bedford ; and two for Lady Stanley's Hospital, Ottawa, Canada. The rest are head nurses in various hospitals throughout the country.

The lectures through the year have been given by :

Dr. Herman Biggs, on Diseases.

Dr. Robt. Carlisle, on Diseases and Symptoms.

Dr. Jasper Garmony, on Surgery and Emergencies.

Dr. Robert Wylie, on Obstetrics.

Dr. Sarah Post, on Massage and Electricity.

The School is strictly unsectarian and all denominations are represented in it.

The registry of nurses is of great importance to the physicians and to the public, as the standing of the nurses is determined by it.

The Managers desire to offer their thanks to Mr. O'Rourke, the Warden, for his kindly sympathy and co-operation with the Superintendent in everything pertaining to the work of the School ; also to the Commissioners of Charity, and to the House Staff and Medical Board of Bellevue Hospital, and to the physicians who have kindly attended our nurses when ill at the Home.

The Edith Summer-Home was opened during the summer months through the hospitality of Mr. Northcote and was a most restful and health-giving resort to many an overworked nurse.

Through the great kindness of Miss Lazarus, four rooms have been built over the Marquand Pavilion for the special use of our nurses who may be taken ill while in the discharge of duty. The nurses deeply appreciate this provision for their comfort, and feel that much anxiety as to the future is lifted from their hearts.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY DE WITT CUYLER,

Secretary.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

OF THE

BELLEVUE TRAINING SCHOOL

BY

DR. FREDERIC S. DENNIS,

AT THE ANNUAL MEETING, JANUARY 12, 1892.

YOUNG LADIES OF THE CLASS OF 1891:—I assure you that I esteem it a very great privilege to be permitted to address you upon this memorable occasion. These graduating exercises mark an important epoch in your professional career. For two long years you have pursued your studies with unflagging zeal, and have performed the work required of you, and now this long-looked-for goal has at last been reached. To-night you are to say farewell to the scenes and associations of this Home with all its hallowed influences. To-morrow you are to undertake the more arduous duties of your chosen profession.

In thinking over something to say to you this evening it occurred to me that the few moments assigned to the speaker could not be more profitably employed than by a consideration of some of the relations which you, in your capacity as a nurse, must assume to those with whom you are to be brought in contact. In speaking a few moments upon this subject I shall not inflict you with poetical quotations, or address you in words of fulsome flattery. I shall consider some things which in the experience of those who have been connected with this School during the past twenty years have found to be most valuable to you in the prosecution of your work and most valuable to the school in the exercise of its beneficent influences. I shall divide my subject into three parts, and shall speak of First, the relations of the nurse to the patient; Second, the relations of the nurse to the family; and Third, the relations of the graduate to the School. First.—The Relations of the Nurse to the Patient. The most important duty you as a nurse may be often called upon to perform, is to establish at the outset, and afterwards to maintain, a feeling of cordial harmony between the patient and yourself. In the event of failure to do this, the stronger of the two, which is always the nurse, must yield. And while this may often seem unjust, it is obvious that the first consideration must be given to the feelings of the patient. Just here comes in the opportunity for the display of those womanly qualities which it is the special field of your profession to offer, and among which may be mentioned such virtues as self-abnegation, unselfishness, passive endurance, devotion to duty, and faithful allegiance to great principles.

In this same connection may be mentioned the limitation of duty. Time will not permit of a rehearsal in detail of what you as nurse are expected to do or not to do in the sick-room ; suffice it to say that if you are inspired with the true spirit of a Florence Nightingale you will do anything and everything that contributes to the welfare of your patient. Just here again I desire to emphasize the fact that there is no service that a host of loving, anxious hands are not waiting to perform if they knew how, did not your presence prevent.

They have surrendered with sublime faith and with trusting hearts all that is dear on earth to them, to you, a complete stranger, with no other testimonial as to your fitness than the possession of a diploma from this School. Remember when you consider any service under these circumstances as menial, you trample in the dust the noble ensign of this School which we all love, honor, and respect. Second.—The Relations of the Nurse to the Family. During the patient's illness your relations to the family should be of a strictly business character. I use the term in the higher sense. You have been employed to perform a special work, for which you are pre-eminently fitted, and for which you will receive a liberal compensation. If you expect more than this you are unworthy of your calling, and you are utilizing the sacred influences of this School for sinister purposes. During the patient's convalescence precedent establishes the rule that the first nurse called in is the one to remain ; but the patient's feelings must be consulted, since they constitute a rule of choice far higher than that of precedent. Under such circumstances retire promptly and cheerfully, and let your going out of the family be attended with the same magnanimous feeling that accompanied your coming into the home. Do not consider any such step as an evidence of inability, or a lack of appreciation, for all people do not think alike upon such questions. Your release from duty may afford you a wider field in the next case.

Other questions will continually come up for solution between the family and yourself. Their settlement becomes easy when you remember that under the circumstances you are not in the family as a guest or a friend ; but the dire necessity of illness, the presence of suffering, or the anticipation of a surgical operation are the exigencies which explain your presence, and therefore your own sense of the fitness of things will indicate to you your relations with the family, and it is your place to take the initiative and to define those relations, and thus avoid unpleasant embarrassment.

Try and make your presence in the family at such an anxious time a source of help and of comfort. Do not disturb any more than possible the domestic arrangement of the household, for it is precisely the pleasant adjustment of such relations with a family into whose inner life you have entered that brings out in bold relief the superior qualities of a thoughtful, considerate nurse.

In your relations with the family whatever you may have heard or seen in your capacity as a nurse must be considered as sacred. These are the secrets that no woman should divulge. Never upon any account or upon any pretext utter a word or a syllable or convey an inkling of what has transpired. The muttering of delirium, the strange fancies of a disordered mind, the lamentations of a broken heart, will often be heard by you alone and in the inner recesses of your soul let these scenes be buried.

Third.—The Relations of the Graduate to the School. It is of reciprocal advantage that your relations as a graduate to the School do not terminate this evening with the conferring of the diploma. This Institution, which has instructed you and now bestows upon you its richest blessing, demands loyal allegiance, and in turn you as a graduate have a right to expect the moral support and endorsement of this influential School from which you have received your education and from which you have derived your diploma.

There is no nurse before me to-night who would not resent with womanly dignity any reproach cast upon this her Alma Mater, and on the other hand this School would defend to its uttermost any aspersions cast upon a member of this or of any other graduating class.

The growth and development of this School are unprecedented when you consider that in 1873 there were only five applications for admission ; in 1891 there were one thousand seven hundred and twenty-one, of which number forty-one were received as probationers, and only thirty of these were considered suitable for the work. There are thirty graduates of this School superintendents of other training schools in this country—indeed so great has the fame of this School extended that its alumnae are found in China, England, Holland, Italy, Japan, Persia, and Turkey. Go where you will, the world over, and the graduates of this the parent School will be found, and it is incumbent upon you young ladies as the last class to strengthen the loyal feeling between the graduates on the one hand and the School upon the other hand. Cherish with deep love and affection the promoters of this great School, always hold in grateful remembrance the valuable instructions of your able Superintendent. Take an exalted view of a profession the knowledge of which you have acquired here and the duties of which bring you in contact with human souls during the most trying and eventful hours of human life. Be forbearing, be cheerful, be discreet, be sympathetic, be true and the richest blessings of earth and of Heaven will crown your noble efforts.

Within these sacred precincts you have learned that life has a serious aspect, and you have been brought face to face with the greatest problems that disturb the human mind.

In the exercise of your profession you can exert an influence for good upon the lives of those with whom you are brought in contact such as is offered in no other sphere of life.

The influence of this School is so widespread that it is like yonder majestic river which flows silently on and by our Hospital and School until it is lost ; but in its windings its influence is felt at every turn and at every stage and at last the current becomes mingled with the fathomless ocean.

In conclusion, young ladies, permit me to congratulate you FIRST, upon the wise choice of a profession in which you can exercise your powers for the amelioration of mankind—no work on earth can be more exalted than that which tends towards the alleviation of human suffering and distress. To be sure the discouragements are many—the physical strain at times is almost impossible to bear, the dangers to life are great, and the disappointments are often bitter ; but on the other hand the conscious- ness of having faithfully performed your whole duty even in the presence of and at the risk of death itself is a reward that is far richer and more precious than any pecuniary emolument and a source of greater joy and happiness than falls to the lot of those who are engaged in any other profession to receive. The faithful performance of your humble and heroic duties will bring you no earthly fame, though the courage to perform those duties was greater than is required to engage in battle, for in case of the soldier, though he takes his life in his hands and his valor leads to death, "the death itself often confers a glory and distinction which prolonged life might entirely fail to achieve." General Sheridan's ride down from Winchester created a greater stir in the world than the most sacrificing devotion to duty in epidemics of typhus, cholera, or yellow fever. You are not, therefore, to look for earthly reward in public applause; but to be content to be thought highly of by a chosen, educated, appreciative few.

Permit me to congratulate you, SECOND, upon your graduation from the Training School connected with Bellevue Hospital, a School known throughout the length and breadth of this great country, for there is not a city, or a town, or a village, or even a hamlet where the name of Bellevue has not been heard with honor and with respect. With such a renowned heritage as this and with such a benediction your professional career begins, and I beg of you to ever maintain the dignity of this noble Institution, which now sends you forth fully equipped for your life's work. I welcome you, young ladies, to the noblest profession in which a woman can engage. I welcome you to a profession which is in touch with the grandest profession in which a man can engage, a profession of which Thomas Carlyle once said "is the greatest of all human professions." Acquit yourselves like women. Be an honor to your profession, and remember that a new duty devolves upon you, to maintain the honor of this Training School—respected abroad, honored at home, beloved by her graduates—and finally made sacred on account of the memory of those brave ones whose lives have been sacrificed in the discharge of their duties as martyrs to the cause of a suffering humanity.

REGULATIONS FOR TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

The Committee of the Training School for Nurses has made arrangements with the authorities of Bellevue Hospital for giving two years' training to women desirous of becoming professional nurses.

Those wishing to obtain this course of instruction must themselves apply to the Superintendent of the Training School, 426 East 26th Street, New York, either in person or by letter, upon whose approval they will be received into the School for one month on probation. The preferable age for candidates is from twenty-five to thirty-five years. The applicant should send, with answers to the paper of questions, a letter from a clergyman testifying to her good moral character, and from a physician stating that she is in sound health. Applicants are received at any time during the year when there is a vacancy, except in July and August. During the month of trial, and previous to obtaining a position in the School, the applicant must be prepared for an examination in reading, penmanship, simple arithmetic, and English dictation. The examination is to test the applicant's ability to read aloud well, to write legibly and accurately, to keep simple accounts, and to take notes of lectures. This amount of education is indispensable for a member of the School, but applicants are reminded that women of superior education and cultivation, when equally qualified as nurses, will be preferred to those who do not possess these advantages.

The Superintendent has full power to decide as to their fitness for the work, and the propriety of retaining or dismissing them. She can also, with the approval of the Committee, discharge them at any time in case of misconduct or inefficiency. During the month of probation the pupils are boarded and lodged at the expense of the School, but receive no other compensation. They are not expected to wear the uniform of the School, but must come provided with dresses of washing material, for use in the Hospital. All clothing must be plainly marked.

Those who prove satisfactory will be accepted as pupil nurses, after signing an agreement to remain two years in the Training School for Nurses, and to obey the rules of the School and Hospital.

They will reside in the Home, and serve for the first year as assistants in the wards of Bellevue Hospital; the second year they will be expected to perform any duty assigned them by the Superintendent, either to act as nurses in the Hospital, or to be sent to private cases among the rich or poor.

The pay for the first year is $7.00 a month, for the second year $12.00 a month. This sum is allowed for the dress, text-books, and other expenses of the nurse, in connection with her work, and is in no wise intended as wages, it being considered that the education given is a full equivalent for their services. They are required, after the month of probation, when on duty, to wear the dress prescribed by the Institution; which is of blue and white seersucker, simply made, white apron and cap, linen collar and cuffs.

The day nurses are on duty from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M., with an hour off for dinner and additional time for exercise or rest. They are also often given an afternoon during the week, and have a right to the half of Sunday. A vacation of two weeks is allowed each year.

As the Institution is unsectarian, there are no religious services connected with it, except evening prayers, and all nurses are expected to attend the place of worship they prefer once on Sunday.

COURSE OF TRAINING.

The instruction includes :

1. The dressing of blisters, burns, sores, and wounds; the application of fomentations, poultices, cups, and leeches.
2. The administration of enemas, and use of catheter.
3. The management of appliances for uterine complaints.
4. The best method of friction to the body and extremities.
5. The management of helpless patients; making beds; moving, changing, giving bath in bed; and preventing and dressing bed-sores.
6. Bandaging, making bandages and rollers, lining of splints.
7. The preparing, cooking, and serving of delicacies for the sick.

They will also be given instruction in the best practical methods of supplying fresh air, warming and ventilating sick-rooms in a proper manner; and are taught to take care of rooms and wards; to keep all utensils perfectly clean and disinfected; to make accurate observations and reports to the physicians of the state of the secretions, expectoration, pulse, skin, appetite, temperature of the body, intelligence—as delirium or stupor,—breathing, sleep, condition of wounds, eruptions, formation of matter, effect of diet, or of stimulants, or of medicines; and to learn the management of convalescents.

The teaching will be given by visiting and resident physicians and surgeons at the bedside of the patients, and by the Superintendent, Assistant-Superintendent, and head nurses. Lectures, recitations, and demonstrations will take place from time to time, and examinations at stated periods.

When the full term of two years is ended, the nurses thus trained can choose their own field of labor, whether in hospitals, in private families, or in district nursing among the poor. On leaving the School they will, after passing the final examination, each receive a diploma signed by the Examining Board and by a Committee of the Board of Managers.

BELLEVUE REGISTRY FOR NURSES.

The Managers of the Training School have established a registry for their graduates, where medical, surgical, and obstetrical nurses, and those competent to take charge of nervous patients, can be obtained by applying either in person, by letter, or telegram, to the office of the Society, 426 East 26th Street.

The terms of the registered nurses are $21 per week, for obstetrical and contagious cases $25 per week, unless special arrangements are made with the nurse for more or less pay.

A list of these nurses will be found on page 45.

1. The fee is $10 a year, due after January 1st.
2. Nurses are to keep the Superintendent informed of their place of residence, and when they are ready for a call, and also when they have accepted a case, either obtained from the office or from any other source.
3. Nurses, while in attendance in the sick-room, are to wear a cap, apron, and dress of washing material, unless the patient or family object, or the circumstances of the case render such a dress inappropriate.
4. Nurses are to report to the office when, from sickness or any other cause, they are obliged to leave a patient who still needs the services of a nurse, so that their place can be supplied as soon as possible.
5. It is the duty of a nurse to take the care of the patient's room, if her time is not fully occupied by the patient; and also to make herself generally useful and acceptable to the family.
6. Before making an engagement a nurse should mention her terms, or if that is not practicable, then, as soon after as convenient, and when an engagement is once made, she should consider herself bound to keep it, and not be induced to break her word in order to please a patient or to secure a more advantageous position.

If any graduate of the School in charge of a case has proved unsatisfactory, the employer is requested to report the fact to the Superintendent.

The regulations for employers are the same as those generally used in registries for nurses.

1. Travelling expenses and washing are to be paid by the employers of the nurses, unless some different arrangement has been made between them.
2. A meal should be provided for a nurse when she is required to be awake all night.

3. When it is necessary for a nurse to care for a very sick person for several nights in succession, she should be allowed not less than six hours' sleep during the days.

4. When taking entire charge of a nervous patient night and day, though a nurse may not lose her sleep, it is better for both patient and nurse that she have some time for exercise in the open air apart from the patient.

It is not expedient to multiply rules, as they are not all of general application, and many details must be regulated by the circumstances of the case. We only ask for the nurses the consideration and kindness due to those who contribute so much to the comfort and well-being of members of the family.

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE I.

The Society shall be known by its incorporated name of "THE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES." (Incorporated February 5, 1874.)

ARTICLE II.

The object of the Society, as defined by its charter, is "the selection, education, training, and providing of suitable persons as nurses for the sick."

ARTICLE III.

The Society shall report monthly and annually in writing to the "New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions," a branch of the State Charities Aid Association.

ARTICLE IV.

The Society shall consist of Honorary Members, Benefactors, Patrons, Members, and Associate Members.

ARTICLE V.

The Officers of the Society shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary, and a Treasurer. They shall be elected annually by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, from among its Members. In case of the death or resignation of an Officer, a successor for the remainder of the year may be elected by a two-thirds vote, by ballot, of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting of the Board, two weeks' notice having been given in writing to the Members by the President or Secretary.

ARTICLE VI.

The President shall preside at all Meetings of the Board of Managers, and shall call Special Meetings at discretion, or upon the written request of three Members. The President shall name the Members of Standing and Special Committees, and shall appoint, annually, an Auditing Committee of two gentlemen, Members of the Society, but not Members of the Board of Managers, to examine and report upon the Accounts of the Treasurer.

ARTICLE VII.

The Vice-President shall, in the absence of the President, perform the duties of the President.

ARTICLE VIII.

The Secretary shall perform the duties usually appertaining to this office.

ARTICLE IX.

The Treasurer shall receive, invest, and take charge of the funds of the Society, and shall make written Monthly Reports to the Board of Managers, of the condition of the Treasury, and a written Annual Report to the President, at the Annual Meeting of the Board of Managers.

ARTICLE X.

There shall be a Board of Managers, consisting of not less than eleven Members. Five Members of this Board shall be Members of the New York County Visiting Committee for Bellevue and Other Public Institutions. The Board may make its own By-Laws, and fill vacancies in its own body. The Board may, by a two-thirds vote, remove any Member for cause. It shall prepare the Annual Report, and submit it to the Society for approval at the Annual Meeting. It shall hold its Annual Meeting just previous to that of the Society. No Member of the Board of Managers shall receive a salary or any compensation for services rendered. Five Members of the Board shall constitute a quorum at any Meeting.

The absence of any Member of the Board of Managers from Meetings of Committees of which he or she may be a Member, for a consecutive period of three months, without giving notice to the Secretary, may be considered by the President as equivalent to a resignation.

ARTICLE XI.

The Board of Managers shall control the management of the School, shall have power to appoint and remove the Superintendent of the School, and shall determine the salaries of all nurses and subordinates.

ARTICLE XII.

There shall be a Committee upon Nominations, composed of the President and three Managers. The names of persons eligible for Managers of this Institution shall be presented to this Committee, and in the event of vacancy in the Board, this Committee shall report and recommend the party or parties eligible for election. After such nominations by the Committee, one month shall elapse, when the election shall take place by ballot at any Meeting at which two thirds of the Managers are present.

ARTICLE XIII.

The Finance Committee shall, with the Treasurer, manage the finances of the Society.

ARTICLE XIV.

Honorary Members shall be chosen only for important service and valuable aid rendered to the School. They shall be exempted from the payment of all dues. They shall be nominated by the Board of Managers, and elected by the Society at its Annual Meeting.

ARTICLE XV.

Benefactors.—Any person who shall give One Thousand Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Benefactor shall have the right to nominate two pupils, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have preference over all other applicants to the first two vacancies, and be received and trained in the School.

ARTICLE XVI.

Patrons.—Any person who shall give Five Hundred Dollars at one time to this Society shall be entitled to all the privileges of membership, without the payment of annual dues. A Patron shall have the right to nominate one pupil, who, upon conforming to the rules for admission, shall have a preference to the first vacancy, and be received and trained in the School.

ARTICLE XVII.

Members and Associate Members must be nominated in writing by a Member or Associate Member of the Society; the name of the proposed Member and the Proposer being sent to the Secretary, to be submitted for approval to the Board of Managers. If elected, and upon payment of annual dues, he or she shall become a Member or Associate Member of the Society. The annual dues of a Member shall be ten dollars, of an Associate Member five dollars, payable immediately after election, and subsequently in January of each year. Members shall be entitled to two votes at all Regular and Special Meetings of the Society, and Associate Members to one vote.

ARTICLE XVIII.

Members and Associate Members may at any time commute all annual dues for life by the payment of One Hundred Dollars, and Fifty Dollars, respectively.

ARTICLE XIX.

The Annual Meeting of the Society shall be held on the second Wednesday of January. The fiscal year of the Society shall be the calendar year.

ARTICLE XX.

The By-Laws of the Sub-Committees must be in accordance with and subordinate to the By-Laws of the Board of Managers. The By-Laws of the Board of Managers must be in accordance with and subordinate to these By-Laws of the Society. These By-Laws can be amended by a two-thirds vote of Members of the Society, or by a majority of the Board of Managers, at any Regular or Special Meeting, the text of the proposed amendment having been sent to each member a fortnight previously by the Secretary.
